

POLICE GO LOOKING FOR ICE

MOTOR BOAT JOURNEYS ALONG THE HUDSON RIVER.

Waldo's Men Will Try to Get a Line on the Visible Supply and Also on the Labor Scarcity Which President Oler Reports—Whitman Orders an Inquiry.

Twenty Central Office men navigated gasoline launches up and down the Hudson River between Kingston and Hudson yesterday afternoon, putting to shore whenever they saw one of the big ice houses. They were after evidence for Commissioner Waldo.

Soon after the Mayor requested the Commissioner to find out why it was that so many small dealers were complaining that they couldn't get ice from the Knickerbocker company and the other big concerns. Commissioner Waldo picked a squad of men who didn't look too much like detectives and ordered them to visit all the Hudson River ice houses, find out how much ice the companies actually have in reserve and report to him speedily.

It will be up to them to find out if the ice companies have been frank with the police investigators. President Wesley M. Oler of the Knickerbocker has told the Commissioner that the city would be as badly off the next time a period of burning weather came along as it was during the last spell for the reason that the ice companies can't get enough skilled men to handle the supply between the shorehouses and this city. One of the purposes of the detectives' ice hunt is to see if there are enough workmen to shunt blocks of ice into the barges and get them down here. The Commissioner has suggested to Mr. Oler that any time he needs laborers it ought not to be hard to get them in the living places of the unemployed.

But the most important part of the upriver sleuthing will be to estimate the quantity of ice on hand now. From various sources the Commissioner has heard that the Knickerbocker and its subsidiary concerns make a practice of finishing the year with a big lot of ice and that the purpose of keeping so much in reserve is to limit the distribution in order to get better prices. Independent dealers have said that there is always enough ice up river but that somehow the price to them goes up with the temperature. The detectives are expected to make their report to the Commissioner to-day and the Commissioner will forward a report to the Mayor and to District Attorney Whitman.

The report will include 478 statements from small dealers and experiences collected by a squad of seventy-five men sent out by the Commissioner for the purpose of finding out if the big supplying concerns had been oppressing them in the last few weeks. The stories picked up by the ice squad conflicted in many cases. Some of the small dealers professed to be satisfied with their dealings with the Knickerbocker. Others made the direct charge that they had been compelled to pay higher prices since July 9 and that although they saw boatloads of ice in some cases a supply was refused.

One detective saw Joseph Nardo, a dealer of 342 East Forty-ninth street, Nardo said he applied at the Independent Ice Company at the foot of East Thirty-sixth street on July 13 and was told that there was no ice on the boat. Nardo saw a lot of ice at the time. Then he went to the Knickerbocker depot at the foot of East Thirty-fifth street. The Knickerbocker people turned him down, saying they had no ice to peddle out.

The boats, said Nardo, "contained a large quantity of ice." Another detective interviewed Luigi Varese of 435 West Forty-fifth street, Michele Campanella of 644 Ninth avenue, Giuseppe Esposito of 644 Ninth avenue, Tomaso Abruzzese, of 644 Ninth avenue, Leonardo Ratti of 375 West Forty-eighth street and Raffaele Locarelli of 369 West Fifty-fifth street. They told him that they had paid 13 cents a hundred pounds for ice up to July 9, but that they have been paying 18 cents a hundred since. They have not been able to get enough to supply their trade, they said.

These are sample statements of the 478 that will be submitted to the Mayor and the District Attorney. A majority of the small dealers have informed the investigators that prices have gone up and that they haven't been able to get what they wanted.

From President Oler of the Knickerbocker Commissioner Waldo obtained yesterday a comparative statement of the distribution of ice by that company in July this year and last. Mr. Oler's figures do not agree with the estimates collected by the police. The statement of ice on hand and wagons in use from June 20, 1910, to July 14, 1910, and from June 20, 1911, to July 14, 1911, follows:

1910.	Tons.	1911.	Tons.

President Oler held that his company, the principal distributor, had done the best it could, but that the extreme heat had made it impossible to keep up with the demand. In such hot weather it was almost a great loss of ice by melting. J. W. Smith, president of the National Ice

SHE SOUGHT DEATH IN RIVER.

Nursemaid Jumps From Ferryboat, but Falls to Elude Rescuers.

A short time after the ferryboat Rockaway left East Thirty-fourth street about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon a young woman climbed over the rail and jumped into the river. One of the passengers, William Henry of 24 Main street, Long Island City, sprang into the water as soon as she disappeared over the side.

He reached her as she came to the surface, but she beat him off and tried to escape his arms. Henry had a hard fight with her, but he managed to keep her within reach. The tugboat Dictator was coming down the river with a tow, bound for Newtown Creek. The skipper saw the two in the water, cut loose from his tow and got to them in time to save them both. A small boat lowered from the ferry came up a minute later.

Bellevue Hospital, where the young woman was taken as a prisoner, she said that she was Nellie Anderson, a nursemaid, of 686 Park avenue. She said at first that she was 25 years old, but later amended it to 30. That was all she would tell about herself except that her mother, whose name she gave as Mrs. King, lived at the Park avenue address too. She was not in bad condition and will be able to go to court this morning to answer the charge of attempted suicide.

THE NAMING OF AMERICA.

Great Crowd at St. Die to Take Part in Intercontinental Celebration.

SAINT DIE, France, July 14.—The celebration here in honor of the naming of America in 1492 began in earnest to-day, although the biggest part of the programme will not come until to-morrow.

The city is gayly decorated with American and French flags and there are many Americans here to join in the celebration, over which United States Ambassador Robert Bacon and M. de Selves, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, are to preside.

The residents were awakened at 5 o'clock this morning by the booming of the cannon in salute and the ringing of the church bells and at 8:30 there was a review of the troops of the garrison. At noon again the cannon boomed and the bells rang and in the afternoon there was a tallion meet.

Later in the afternoon the band of the artillery regiment of Vincennes gave a grand concert in the faubourg. This evening the city was illuminated and there were fireworks display, a concert in the park and dances in the public halls.

The programme for to-morrow is most elaborate and all of Saint Die, no matter how late it may dance to-night, will be up early. The fête is not only in commemoration of the naming of America, but also in affirmation of the confraternity of the two great republics of the world.

TO FORFEIT CURPHEY'S BAIL.

New Motion Against the Correspondent in the Mellon Case.

Assistant District Attorney Johnstone renewed his motion before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions yesterday to forfeit the $2,500 bail put up by the National Surety Company for the appearance of Alfred George Curphey and his friend, Capt. T. W. Kirkbride. Curphey was named as correspondent in the divorce suit brought by Andrew W. Mellon of Pittsburgh.

While they were under subpoena they came to New York to consult their attorney. They were arrested here on a charge brought in Pennsylvania that they had "obstructed public justice." They did not appear when Gov. Dix had decided that their offense was extraditable, and July 12 Mr. Johnstone moved to have their bail forfeited. He repeated the motion yesterday on the ground that there was a specification in the bail bond which called for their appearance on the 14th.

Francis P. Garvan, their attorney, said that inasmuch as Judge Mulqueen had taken the earlier motion under advisement for a week he did not see why the new motion should not be settled at the same time.

Judge Mulqueen agreed with him and postponed his decision until July 19.

MRS. POST CAN'T PAY.

Festivities in Supplementary Proceedings That She Borrows Her Living Expenses.

Mrs. Emma C. Post, who recently won a suit brought against her by her husband, Augustus T. Post, the balloonist, for the annulment of their marriage, on the ground that she had a husband living when she married Post, was examined in supplementary proceedings yesterday on a judgment for $98 obtained by a dressmaker.

Mrs. Post testified that she has no money and has to borrow to pay her living expenses. She said she recently had typhoid fever and was in St. Luke's Hospital for six weeks, and to pay for her treatment she had to pawn many of her jewels. She borrowed $400 from Mrs. Daniel E. Sickles, she said. She said she didn't know where her husband is now.

Counsel for the creditor asked concerning Post's settlement with her for accrued alimony pending the annulment suit. Mrs. Post said that she accepted $5,000 in lieu of all claims for alimony but that she owed nearly all of it and most of the entire $5,000 was gone before night on the day she got it. She used $200 to get out of pawn jewelry that had belonged to her daughter, now Mrs. George Kemp. Then she sent the jewelry to her daughter in Paris.

Mrs. Post said that the only articles of adornment she owns now are her wedding ring, a gold thimble and a gold cross.

OPUM AND CIGARS SEIZED.

Surveyor Henry Visits the British Steamer Strathgairn at Staten Island.

A tip came to the Customs House on Thursday that the British steamship Strathgairn, from ports of the Far East, had aboard a lot of opium and a large number of smuggled cigars. The Strathgairn arrived at the morning and it was supposed that she was still at anchor somewhere in the bay, but she had made a quick docking at Staten Island. Surveyor Henry Smith, with Deputy Surveyors Harris, O'Connor and Lutz and Special Agents Norcross and Murphy and seven inspectors, started for the Strathgairn in the tugboat Dictator.

They found that she was in dock and boarded her. They found about $500 worth of opium and 12,000 cigars, which were seized. The skipper of the Strathgairn was asked to explain things at the Customs House.

TO PARDON UNACCUSED MAN

W. C. DREIER'S LAWYER SAYS TAFT WILL FREE HIM

If He'll Testify About the Entries in the Lichtenstein Books—He's Once Been in Contempt and Threatened With Another Charge—Never Been Indicted.

The fact that the Federal Grand Jury is still investigating the old "sleeper trunk mystery" was disclosed yesterday when William C. Dreier, secretary of the Lichtenstein Millinery Company, was brought before Judge Hand of the United States District Court for contempt.

When the Grand Jury was conducting a similar investigation more than a year ago Dreier was subpoenaed to produce the books of the Lichtenstein company. He failed to produce the books on the constitutional ground that to do so would tend to incriminate him. The matter was eventually taken to the Supreme Court at Washington and Dreier was directed to produce the books, which he did recently. Then the Grand Jury subpoenaed him to appear to explain the entries. Dreier again refused on the ground that he had previously advanced.

W. Wickham Smith, Dreier's counsel, was not aware of his client's predicament until about fifteen minutes before Mr. Dreier was taken before Judge Hand for contempt in refusing to obey the court's subpoena. He hastened to the Federal Building, arriving just in time to head off the proceedings and get an adjournment to next Wednesday.

The District Attorney did not make an actual presentment for contempt against Dreier, but Mr. Smith attributes the failure to do so to his own timely arrival on the scene. The presentment will be made, it is understood, when the case comes up on Wednesday.

Mr. Smith said also that the District Attorney's office had a pardon signed by President Taft all ready to give Dreier if he had testified satisfactorily concerning the entries. Dreier has not been convicted of any Federal crime or even indicted so far as could be learned. Mr. Smith confessed he could not understand how under the circumstances a pardon could be operative.

At Mr. Wise's office no one would deny that such a pardon was at hand. Assistant United States Attorney Dorr said that the President could issue a pardon even if the person to be pardoned had not been convicted of a crime. Evidence of the commission of a crime is sufficient to warrant the issuance of a pardon, though the proposed beneficiary can accept or reject it. He called attention to "ex parte Garland," where the majority opinion of the Supreme Court says:

"The power of pardon conferred by the Constitution upon the President is unlimited except in cases of impeachment. It extends to every offense known to the law and may be exercised at any time after the commission, either before legal proceedings are taken, during their pendency or after conviction and judgment. The power is not subject to legislative control."

Dreier is not at present under any accusation of crime because he purged himself of the first presentment for contempt by producing the Lichtenstein books pursuant to the decision of the Supreme Court, and no presentment has yet been made against him for refusing to testify to the entries. On the other hand Dreier refused to testify as to the entries on the ground that to do so would tend to incriminate him. This the Government regards as tantamount to an admission that an offense has been committed, and it is to this supposed offense that the President's pardon was to have been applied in case Dreier had testified satisfactorily.

Lawyers engaged in Federal practice are looking forward with keen interest to the disposition of this case when it comes up before Judge Hand next Wednesday.

LEAPED FOR LIVES FROM AUTO.

Dr. and Mrs. Doremus' Car Stalled on Track Before Oncoming Train.

BELLEVILLE, N. J., July 14.—Dr. Widmer B. Doremus and his wife, a young couple living at 16 Midland avenue, Arlington, saved their lives by some rapid gymnastics this evening when the physician's automobile was smashed by the locomotive of a New York bound passenger train where the Erie tracks cross Rutgers street at grade here. The car was caught squarely by the pilot of the engine and carried a block, but Dr. and Mrs. Doremus had jumped from their seats in the car just before the smash came.

Dr. Doremus was on his way to East Orange from Arlington to attend a consultation at the Flatbush station. The car was at fair speed when the physician noticed that the going was very rough across the Erie tracks and he slowed down to a turtle's pace.

Just as the machine was squarely on the tracks the motor stopped. A short distance away loomed the headlight of the oncoming passenger train. Without waiting to get down out of the motor the physician vaulted out of the car from one side and his wife swung herself off from the other.

A moment after each had scrambled off the track the locomotive crashed into the machine and carried it onward until the train was stopped. Policemen in the Belleville station house a few feet from the crossing ran up to find Dr. and Mrs. Doremus badly mused up as to nerves, but uninjured. Dr. Chester R. Brown of Arlington was telephoned for and he took Dr. and Mrs. Doremus home in his car.

PLAY HOSE ON PIANOS.

Pianos furnished the fuel for a blaze at Tenth avenue and Forty-fourth street last evening that acting Chief Kenlon estimated did $20,000 damage. The fire was first seen shooting from the fifth floor of the building 615 and 619 Tenth avenue. The Lockhart Piano Company occupies this floor and the one below. Kimbler & Collins, also piano manufacturers, are on the third floor. When Battalion Chief Murphy arrived he thought a second alarm was due, as the building is old and the piano and carpentry supplies in it dangerous. The fire was under control in about three-quarters of an hour.

In addition to the piano and water damage on the two top stories the water done to the third floor was considerable.

TO PROBE NATIONAL CITY CO.

Attorney-General Wants to Know if It Violates Anti-Trust Law.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—It is the intention of Attorney-General Wickersham to investigate the National City Company of New York, the organization recently formed by the directors of the National City Bank for the purpose of holding the stocks of other national banks which have hitherto been held for that institution by individuals connected with the National City Bank. Apparently it is the intention of the Attorney-General to look closely into this somewhat new idea of a holding company.

The First Security Company, which bears about the same relation to the First National that the National City Company bears to the National City Bank, will also be included in the investigation. The investigation will be for the purpose of ascertaining whether these companies will infringe upon the Sherman anti-trust law.

The Department of Justice does not indicate what way these holding companies might violate the law, but it is known that Attorney-General Wickersham for some time has believed that the Government ought to have exact information in regard to the effect of the extensive consolidations of bank interests that have been taking place recently.

SUBWAY MOTORMAN KILLED.

His Body Found Under Train, Which Comes to Stop Automatically.

A subway train ran loose without a motorman for about ten seconds yesterday morning. The motorman had fallen off and been killed. The automatic emergency brake set when the man fell off stopped the train within one hundred and fifty feet without further accident.

The train had left the 191st street station after the biggest rush of the morning, not crowded. About four hundred feet from the station the jolt of the emergency was felt. The motorman's cab was found empty. The trainmen discovered his body under the third car. Both legs had been cut off and he had probably been killed instantly.

The efficiency of the automatic brake on subway trains has not been frequently demonstrated in this striking way, although in tests it has always been found thorough. The visible part of it is a button on top of the controller which the motorman constantly presses down while the train is moving. As soon as his hand is released, purposely or through fainting or weakness or death, the button rises and the brakes are set.

The motorman was William A. Stone of 274 Forty-ninth street, Brooklyn. A possible explanation of his death is that he had leaned from the side of the cab and his head had been struck in passing a signal post. There was the mark of a blow on the side of the dead man's head. Stone leaves a widow and one child.

ONE WIRELESS RECEIVER OUT.

Robert F. Dowling Resigns and No One Is Named in His stead.

Robert F. Dowling, who was appointed one of the three of the United Wireless Telegraph Company in the stockholders' action before Supreme Court Justice Cohan, resigned yesterday, giving as his reason serious and unexpected illness in his family.

Roger Foster, counsel in the case, went before Justice Cohan and asked him to appoint another receiver on the ground that Sidney Harris, who was appointed with Mr. Dowling, cannot give his whole time to the receivership, which would be necessary unless there were two receivers. "Absolutely imperative" were the words that Mr. Foster used.

Justice Cohan directed that Mr. Harris continue as sole receiver and also signed an order giving the receiver power to pay three weeks salaries, amounting to $2,321, in order to keep the wireless operators from leaving.

The court was informed by counsel for the receivers that they had declined to accede to the request of Selden Bacon, the receiver in bankruptcy appointed in Maine, that they give up the assets. Because of the resignation of Mr. Dowling counsel for Mr. Bacon took no steps yesterday to have the State receivers punished for contempt of the Federal court appointing him and enjoining all persons from interfering with him in taking possession of the assets. A move is expected to-day.

LOST JEWELS AT THE BEACH.

Mrs. Cavanaugh Says There Were $7,800 Worth in Chamois Bag.

Mrs. E. F. Cavanaugh, wife of a wholesale dealer in plumbing supplies on Market street, Newark, lost $7,800 worth of jewelry in a chamois bag at Rockaway beach on July 8. Mr. Cavanaugh said last night that one of the detectives working on the case has told him that the police have under surveillance a woman well known in Rockaway society.

The Cavanaughs are spending the summer at the Gardner cottage on Baywater avenue, Far Rockaway. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh have private rooms for the season at Roche's bathing pavilion on the ocean side of Far Rockaway.

They had been bathing together on July 8 and Mrs. Cavanaugh, having dressed first, sat down in the corridor of the bath house to wait for her husband to come from his room. She had in her lap a chamois bag containing jewelry.

When Mr. Cavanaugh appeared, he and his wife went out together to their automobile. Just as she was about to step into the machine Mrs. Cavanaugh remembered the chamois bag and went back for it. She was unable to find it and reported the matter to the Far Rockaway police.

The jewels, or a part of them, were the gift of a sister. Mrs. Cavanaugh has offered $1,000 reward for their return. They included six or seven rings, a bracelet and a euniburst.

Bitten by Shark on Ship's Deck.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 14.—Martin Berg of the crew on the lightskip at the Delaware Cape was bitten by a shark to-day and dangerously injured. The fish was caught from the lightskip. When upon the deck it bit viciously at Berg, tearing the flesh from his leg from the knee to the knee. The shark, one of the largest ever caught at that point, was a man eater.

TWO NIGHTS TO THE ROCKIES.

INTERVENTION CONSPIRACY

CUBAN PRESIDENT SAID TO HOLD PROOF OF IT.

High Personage at Washington Told Him of It After Being Approached—Plan Was to Make Zayas Governor. They Say—Talk of New York Capitalist in It.

HAVANA, July 14.—Havana is considerably stirred this afternoon over the publication of a sensational story that Gomez is in possession of documents amply proving that certain prominent men have been conspiring to procure another intervention ever since Gomez was elected. No names are given, but descriptions indicate plainly that among the men referred to are Zayas, San Miguel and Juan Gualberto Gomez.

The plan is said to impeach the President, bring about the intervention and procure the appointment of Vice-President Zayas as Governor of Cuba. The story further alleges that San Miguel and New York capitalists have planned to supply funds for the revolution and that Major James E. Runcie and Consul-General Rogers are implicated.

Speaker of the House Ferrera, when an interview was sought, refused to talk further than to say: "All of this present campaign has been prepared by two men who are well known to have little affection for the republic of Cuba. One is now here and the other is in the United States. You and the public know who they are, and I have documentary evidence against them."

It is believed that he referred to Zayas and San Miguel. The story alleges that San Miguel proposed the plans to a high Washington personage who communicated them to President Gomez. Secretary of State Sanguly has sent to Secretary Knox his thanks for the latter's despatch assuring Cuba that Washington does not intend to intervene.

Meyer, the German stock raiser who was wounded by the bandit Solis, is in a critical condition. Germany will demand heavy damages from the Cuban Government.

WATERSPOUT AT BALTIMORE.

People Along the River Treated to Rare Spectacle.

BALTIMORE, July 14.—Careering down the river into the upper bay this morning a waterspout, estimated to be 100 feet in diameter at the base, smashed and twisted things just below Sparrows Point and terrorized shipping men.

A large lighter of the Raymond Concrete Company and several smaller craft that were moored to the wharves or anchored in the neighborhood of the Maryland Steel Company were torn from their moorings by the whirling waves that followed the spout.

Few of the harbor men had ever witnessed such a phenomenon and it is said that the spout was the first seen in the river in thirty years. The cry of "Waterspout!" just before the lowering skies disgorged their rain this morning brought almost every worker in the steel plant at the point out of doors and throngs of the residents of the little town huddled together as they watched the whirling mass of water sweeping down the river.

The spout came without warning. It formed about half a mile from shore and increased in size rapidly growing in width as it ascended. Soon it attained its full height. Seen from the shore it appeared to be away in the clouds.

By this time the clouds had been spread through the village and the inhabitants despite the heavy downpour of rain rushed out to see the rare sight. They gathered along the waterfront and on the pier. Staring from Sparrows Point the spout proceeded northward whipping the river into a seething foam and forming great waves.

Driven by a strong wind the spout whirled up the river for nearly a mile before it broke.

The great pillar of water stopped in its course, poised for a moment in the air and toppled over, making a tremendous splash which was heard far in shore. The crash of the spout was followed by a flash of lightning and a heavy downpour of rain.

HOKE SMITH DODGES HIS JOB.

Refuses to Be Forced Into the Senate—Will Wait After Legislature Adjourns.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 11.—Governor or Senator Smith, and Senator Joseph Terrell are still doing the Alphonse-Gaston act.

In order to force Gov. Smith to qualify as Senator, Terrell to-day sent a letter to him declaring that the representative of Georgia should have authority behind his vote and that Hoke Smith was the only one qualified for the place. Holding that his term was ended automatically he tendered his resignation, in order to remove all doubt.

The letter was given to Gov. Smith early in the afternoon and early to-night he replied with a letter in which he refused to accept the resignation, holding that precedent dictated that Terrell was still Senator until he (Gov. Smith) qualified, that he had no intention of so doing until the present session of the Georgia Legislature came to an end and that he didn't want to accept the resignation unless Terrell insisted. He closed with a request that Mr. Terrell would withdraw his offer.

Senator Terrell said late to-night that he had not yet decided upon an answer and that he could have nothing further to say upon the subject until to-morrow.

In the meantime Georgia is practically deprived of one vote in the Senate.

HURRICANE IN PHILIPPINES.

Islanders Cut Off From Manila—Great Damage Is Feared.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. MANILA, July 15.—A hurricane has swept northern Luzon, Cagayan and Ilocos del Norte provinces.

Manila has no telegraphic communication with the other islands in the Philippine group and there is no way of knowing the extent of the damage. It is believed, however, that it has been terrific.

No vessels have arrived at Manila for several days.

BISHOP DENOUNCES GOVERNOR.

Mouon of Methodist Church Dislikes Colquitt's Anti-Prohibition Stand.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 14.—Bishop E. D. Mouon of the Methodist Episcopal Church South read Gov. O. B. Colquitt of Texas out of the Methodist Church here to-day.

Colquitt has been campaigning throughout the State against the prohibition amendment which will be voted on July 22. He is to speak here to-night. In addressing an audience to-day Bishop Mouon said:

"I am one of the executive officers of the Methodist Church. I deem it appropriate to say this much because a man who is to speak in this city to-night is going about over the State claiming to be a Methodist—professing it with his mouth while denying it with his deeds. There is a rule of the Methodist Church, as old as John Wesley, which forbids in toto the use of intoxicants by members of the Methodist Church except on the prescription of a physician, and then only as one would use any other drug. The Methodist Church is a prohibition church."

CHANGES COLLEGES AT 50.

Woman Who Took First Two Years Course in Ohio to Enter Wisconsin University.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 14.—Mrs. A. D. Winship of Racine, Wis., although aged 50, expects to complete a college course at the University of Wisconsin in the next two years. Mrs. Winship, who arrived in this city to-day to visit her daughter, entered the University of Ohio when 28 years of age and successfully completed the first and second year courses, making physiology her special study.

She is hale, rugged and hearty and says she will complete her university studies at the University of Wisconsin. She intends to enter the Madison school next September and believes she will have no trouble mastering her studies.

At summer school in Ohio this year Mrs. Winship gained honors for the excellence of her work in competition with many who were scores of years her junior. She is the mother of Dr. Davis of the university faculty.

DOG'S VIGIL CONSTANT.

Irish Setter Haunts Home of Dead Woman He Watched Over.

Dog devotion of a strong nature was shown by an Irish setter, which the neighbors, assisted by a policeman, tried in vain to remove from the home of its late mistress at 328 East Forty-eighth street last night. The dog had been found last Saturday watching over the dead body of its mistress, Mrs. Mary Sullivan. The woman had been dead several days and the dog during that time, say the neighbors, had been without food and water.

Removed from the house the dog made its way back. It stayed about whining and resisting the efforts of those who tried to remove it until it became a nuisance. Policemen came to the East Fifty-first street station chased the dog
